KEYNOTE SPEAKER

The cofounder and president of entertainment enterprises for iHeartMedia, John Sykes '77 is a transformative force in the television and music industries. Sykes' influential career stretches from the original team that in 1981 created and founded MTV—the pioneering music television network—to his current role at iHeartMedia, the world's largest radio station group and top podcast publisher in the United States.

At iHeartMedia, Sykes is responsible for creating and distributing the company's content across a broad range of media partners, including television, streaming, live events, podcasting and digital platforms. He guides the company's relationship with the music industry, promoting artist development and creating value for iHeartMedia advertisers and key partners.

Prior to iHeartMedia, Sykes built and operated iconic entertainment brands. After MTV, Sykes went on to spend two decades at Viacom, where he served as president of VH1 from 1994-2002. (He rebranded and led the network to record audience ratings and profits during his tenure.) He also served as chairman and CEO of Infinity Broadcasting and president of Chrysalis Records North America.

In 2010, Sykes joined MTV cofounder Bob Pittman and Rich Bressler to rebrand Clear Channel Communications into iHeartMedia, which they took public in 2019. iHeartMedia reaches 270 million broadcast listeners a month and produces a dozen annual signature national events.

Sykes serves as the chairman of the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame Foundation. A member of the Newhouse School Advisory Board, Sykes also serves as a member of the board of directors of Madison Square Garden Entertainment/Sphere Entertainment Co., and the Robin Hood Foundation. Sykes graduated from the Newhouse School with a bachelor's degree in television, radio and film. He was awarded an honorary doctorate from the Berklee School of Music in 2001 and was inducted into the Cable Television Hall of Fame in 2019.
